

LADYSMITH SAVED

Gen. Dundonald At Last Reaches the Long Besieged City, That Fact Being Announced.

A LOSS AGGREGATING FOUR THOUSAND

This Was Sustained By the English in the Four Attempts Made To Reach Ladysmith.

The British Loss So Far Is Estimated, of Which 3,519 Were Killed During the Last Four Days.

London, March 1.—The war office has received the following dispatch from Gen. Buller:

"Lyttelton's Headquarters, March 1.—9:05 a. m.—Gen. Dundonald, with Natal carabineers and composite regiments, entered Ladysmith last night."

"The country between me and Ladysmith is reported clear of the enemy. I am now moving on Nethepo."

London, March 1.—Gen. Buller's decision to attack the Boers has brought the rescue of Ladysmith near, but the war office intimates that an immediate announcement of relief need not be expected. As his message reveals, Gen. Buller's successful attack came after a hard fighting of Friday, and it was improvised and his execution begun during the armistice of Northumberland, while of nearly 300 colonials the Royal Canadians lost 121 and the Victoria mounted contingent 24. The casualties are classified thus: Killed, 963; wounded, 6,838; missing, 3,173; disease, 830.

TRUCE FOR A DAY.

Both Sides Given Time to Bury Their Dead and Care for the Wounded After Several Days of Fighting.

London, March 1.—Winston Churchill, in a dispatch from Colenso, dated Tuesday, says: "The condition of the wounded who were unattended on the hill Sunday, was so painful that Gen. Buller sent a flag of truce to the enemy, and it was arranged that throughout Sunday military movements should continue on both sides, but there should be no shooting."

"This truce terminated at dusk. The Boers then resumed a furious musketry attack on the British left. The attack was repulsed. Fighting continues vigorously. We shall see who can stand 'bucketing' best, the British or the Boers."

Boers Offer to Surrender.—London, March 1.—A special dispatch from Cape Town, dated Tuesday, says: "The Boers at Barkley East have offered to surrender on condition that the safety of the Boers and their families be assured. The British, however, insist upon an unconditional surrender."

All Quiet at Stormberg.—London, March 1.—According to a special dispatch from Cape Town, dated February 27, Lord Kitchener is at Stormberg. The Boers are retiring to Norval's Point, and all is quiet at Stormberg.

UNHEALTHY FOOD

Senate Committee's Report After Investigating the Adulteration of Food and Drink.

AN EFFORT TO PUT A STOP TO IT.

Two General Ways Suggested and a Law May Be Enacted Which Will Put One in Force.

The Sale of Deleterious and Unhealthy Food and Drink, and Those Cheaper by Adulteration Must Be Stopped.

Washington, March 1.—The senate committee on manufactures submitted to the senate a report on the extensive investigation it has conducted into allegations that many important articles of food and drink are adulterated, and that a serious danger to the public health or, where the adulterant is not injurious to health, to the pocket, is thereby created. Accompanying the report is a great mass of testimony taken in the leading cities of the country. The report says the importance of the investigation made and the legislation proposed can not be too strongly emphasized. It adds:

"The adulteration of prepared or manufactured foods is very extensively practiced, and in many cases to the great discredit of our manufacturers. It is only fair to say, however, that a large proportion of the American manufacturers who are engaged in adulterating food products do so in order to meet competition, and it is the expression of those gentlemen to say, 'We would be glad to get out of the business of adulterating. We would like to quit putting this stuff in coffee, and would be willing to brand our syrups for what they are, but our competitors get a trade advantage which we can not surrender.'"

"It is the purpose of this committee to adopt this uniform rule: To prohibit the sale of adulterated and unhealthy food products, and as to those food products which are simply cheapened by adulterants, to compel the marking of those goods for what they are. Deleterious food products should be prohibited and the rest thoroughly regulated."

"There have been two general ways suggested as to the matter of regulation. First, to put the important food products under the internal revenue law, which was four years ago adopted, and which was found to be in many cases dangerous to public health, and has increased the sale of American food products 25 per cent. in other countries. If the rule established by this committee can be carried out as to our other food products, we will not only protect the consumer and the honest manufacturer who is willing to sell his goods for what they are, but we will also establish a reputation for our food products which will assist us to find a ready market for them in other countries."

"The other plan to regulate the food products is contained in senate bill 2426, which establishes a department under the secretary of agriculture and provides for the establishment of a bureau which shall fix the standard for foods, drinks and for drugs, based on the American pharmacopeia. The strong argument against this plan is the fact that it would establish a department which would make a ready market for them in other countries."

"To illustrate: The evidence before the committee shows that adulterated pepper, cinnamon, cloves and spices generally, including ginger and mustard, are adulterated. One manufacturer testified that he adulterates three barrels with coconut shells, and that the amount of the adulterants put in depended upon the man who ordered it. Sometimes as high as 50 per cent. was put in."

"It would be difficult, it may be seen at a glance, to establish a law for spices to compel them to stamp as mixed spice every package sold. It may be that such cumbersome legislation will have to be made in order to properly punish those who adulterate their goods; but it is hoped senate bill 2426 will reach all interstate trade in manufactured food products, and that the law established under the bill will have power to its standards based upon what is now the standard in the American pharmacopeia."

To Recover Customs Duties.—Washington, March 1.—Suit was filed in the United States court of claims by Ludwig Duplax, of Porto Rico, to recover $5,334 which he paid on customs duties on goods imported from the United States. He bases his right to recover on the claim that he is a citizen of the United States under the treaty of peace with Spain and the constitution of the United States. Porto Rico, he claims, is a part of the United States, and therefore under the constitution the duties were illegally exacted. The petition was filed by John O. Carlisle and John C. Chaney as counsel.

Will Be Awarded Soldiers.—Washington, March 1.—The house committee on public lands reported favorably on the bill giving to soldiers or sailors who served in the United States army or navy an allowance of time of service on any homestead entry they may have made.

JUSTICE DELAYED.

Great Difficulties Met With in Prosecuting the Custom House Fraud Cases in Havana.

Havana, March 1.—The readiness with which the Spanish laws lend themselves to delay in litigation has availed, despite every effort on the part of the American authorities, to postpone the trial of the custom house fraud cases. It is now openly asserted by friends of the accused that at least five months more must elapse before the prosecution can bring these charges to a head in open court.

Influence is being brought to bear upon all Cuban officials in any way associated with the proceedings, and every possible cause of pressure is being used to force, if not to compel, the charges, at least an indefinite postponement of judicial investigation. RIVER NEWS

The river at this point is full of heavy broken ice.

The T. H. Davis is towing ties out of the Tennessee river.

The Keystone State goes to Wheeling and Pittsburgh tonight.

The Heaver is coming up the Lower Ohio with an immense tow of lumber.

It is now a settled fact the Joe B. Williams lost twenty-one boats and the Smoky City lost four.

The E. R. Andrews, D. T. Lane and W. B. Calderwood, the Kanawha and Ohio Transportation Company's towboats, are laid up in the Kanawha on account of ice.

The New South and Smoky City clipper arrived at New Orleans Monday. The North arrived just in time to see Rex's flotta come up the river and be saluted by the battleship Texas.

The towboats Jacob Richman, J. M. Ritchman, Jack Pratt, Polar Wave, Emma Cooper, J. Cooper, J. W. Bowles and Maggie Bell are doing a heavy ton and lumber business in the Tennessee and Cumberland rivers to Brooklyn.

The combine barges in tow of South-bound towboats with coal are "skinning" the railroads at Pittsburgh by carrying thousands of tons of coal, nails and other manufactured steel and iron freight. The barges carry it at a cheaper rate than railroads.

Diver Vic Erhart, who has been at work recovering the timber freight from the hold of the sunken White Coal Line steamer State of Kansas, at New Madrid, Mo., arrived home Monday, having been doing a heavy ton and lumber business in the Tennessee and Cumberland rivers to Brooklyn.

Owing to the congested condition of the Monongahela, Allegheny and Ohio rivers navigation on the three rivers is suspended at Pittsburgh on account of the heavy ice. The postboats and Monongahela river packets were forced to the bank, and several boats experienced a great deal of difficulty in reaching the shore to the up. Rivermen say that the present mass of ice is far worse than any of recent years. The streams are not frozen over, but the ice is so heavy and together and remains stationary. Meanwhile the rivers are still falling, and the ice is not moving out. It will require a continuous rain to start the ice moving, and until then there will be little activity along Pittsburgh rivers.

A telegram from Washington says: Captain Dravo of the Pittsburgh Coal Exchange was at the Capitol today in conference with Congressman Dalzell and others relative to certain improvements to the navigation of the Ohio River. He said the steambot men want action upon the construction of the railroad bridges at Newbenville and Bellairs, these bridges having been condemned by the War Department and their reconstruction recommended. The river men want the channel spans of the bridges widened. It is stated, however, that the acts under which these bridges were constructed did not require their alteration at the company's expense, as bridge bills now provide, so that if they are widened the Government will have to bear a portion, if not all, of the expense. The Coal Exchange wants something done in the matter as soon as possible.

No village is really complete without a brass band. There may not be over a dozen men in the village band, but it plays forte and sometimes sounds like eighty. They are typical country-band men, but with all that they can play and play well; and they are a great feature of the performance, both on the stage and in the orchestra, where they discourse some very taking music.
